but, it’s important to know that even with a "silent" cancer there is much we can do to assess our personal risk so we can take the proper precautions to protect our health.