and again, one must answer, "it's certainly a possibility." and once again, surgery, chemotherapy, and radiation get to pick up the pieces -- thus accounting for a small part of the improvement.

this apathy toward the real life and love of celebrities who get so much from the world and give no lasting contribution will go til the end of time.